

The Coastal Otter Project

Proposed sites have been identified from a range of sources - some are National Otter Survey sites, some have records collated from the various databases and some look possible from the map - watercourses or coastal strips which are accessible from public roads or footpaths. The sites may be single points such as bridges or weirs or they may be longer stretches of river or coast - they are suggested starting points for searches. Site names are nearest named points on OS maps. Check out the sites on OS site for detailed site info and likely river/pool access.

<https://getoutside.ordnancesurvey.co.uk>

Accessibility of sites has NOT been assessed and it is the responsibility of the surveyor. Do not take any chances with watercourses and steep accesses. Always make sure somebody knows where you are and when to expect you back.

In general the list begins with the sites near the Plymouth border and works clockwise around the Cornish coastline, with the exception of sites 407-412.
