

Field trip to Lethytep near Lanreath, Looe.

Wednesday 6th July, 14:00

Something a bit different for CMG: an exclusive guided tour of one of Cornwall's wildlife gems.

Lethytep is the result of 15 years of managing land for wildlife – a beautiful and inspirational site with incredible wildflower meadows, lakes and woodland. The invertebrate life is amazing and consequently there are plenty of birds and, perhaps not so obvious, mammals. This is a great opportunity to see around Philip and Faith Hambly's ongoing project during the best time of year.

There will be a charge of £10 (payable on the day) which will support their impressive charity fund-raising and this will include a guided tour of the site and some exceptionally good refreshments. There will also be a chance to explore later.

Please book your place using the Eventbrite link: <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/318474183857> (or contact Dave)

You will need sensible footwear and, most importantly, your camera. Elasticated waist trousers may be useful.

You can find out more about Lethytep at www.letytep.co.uk

I'm hoping we may be visiting Lethytep later in the year to carry out some small mammal trapping and maybe search for harvest mouse nests but to see the site in its glory you will need to visit in the summer.
